Cravath Men Make Stirring Rallies in Ninth

One brings Victory Over New Yorkers, Another Ties Up Game; Many Pitchers Used

From a Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—Two stirring ninth inning rallies earned the Phillies an even break over the pennant flying New York Giants this afternoon. The ninth inning rally in the first game served to tie up the contest and send the fracas into extra innings. the Giants winning in the tenth, 8 to 7, in a heetic slugging bee. The last session rally in the twilight struggle gave the Cravath athletes the victory, by

S to 2.

Fifteen players were used by each team in the first game, seven of whom were pitchers. Rixey started for the Phils, was succeeded by Meadows, who turned the reins over to Betts, who returned to the bench for a pinch hitter, turned to the bench for a pinch hitter, giving George Smith an opportunity to twirl and lose the game. For the McGrawless Giants Tony started, and was relieved by Douglas, who was benched in favor of Barnes.

Hubbell and Nehf were the opposing twirlers in the second, both going the full distance, with the ex-Giant having it over the present Giant.

Ten Thousand in Stands

Ten Thousand in Stands

About ten thousand were comfortably seated in the grandstand when the abcond game started, the bleachers being devoid of humans because of the rain during the first game.

For five innings the game was a pretty hurling duel between Nehf and Hubbell, each yielding five hits. In the sixth Young led off with a double down the left field foul line. Frisch laid down a pretty sacrifice and Young rested on third. Kelly hit a wicked grounder to Jack Miller, who threw swiftly to the plate as Young started home. Then Tragesser pulled the famous Heinie Zim play by scaring Young back to third with safety.

Kelly in the mean time went to second and the stage was all set for Spencer's double against the right field wall, which scored Young and Kelly. A double play by Williams to R. Miller cut off any further scoring.

In the next inning the Phillies managed to garner a single tally on Doyle's error of Hubbell's grounder and singles by Le Bourveau and Rawlings. Going into the ninth one behind, Gavvy decided to take Le Bourveau's bat in hand and start something. And he did. The second ball pitched landed high against the wall in center field, and old Wooden Shoes rested on second.

e wall in center field, and old Wooden noes rested on second. Meusel Ties Up Game

Rawlings sent Casey Stengel, who ran for Cravath, to third on his infield out. With the crowd yelling for Williams to hit a homer he fanned ignominiously. That made two down, a man on third and Meusel at the bat. After letting the first one drift by Irish combed the second into center, and Stengel scored the tieing run.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—In a tight game Cincinnati defeated Chicago in the final contest of the series to-day, 3 to 2. Doubles by Sicking and Allen after two were out in the ninth put over the winning run.

Jack Miller beat out an infield bounder to Doug Baird and Meusel rested on second. R. Miller, who had been very easy for Nehf on his other trips to the home sector, smashed a single to left, and when Burns momentarly fumbled it Meusel ambled safely across the plate with the winning run.

The initial struggle was indeed a hectic one. The Giants, though outhit, won the fracas by taking advantage of every error of omission by the Phillies. Fourteen hits, three by Cy Williams, were made by Baker's hired hands, while the Giants drove out twelve safeties.

Risey started but was withdow.

Safeties.

Rixey started, but was withdrawn in the fifth after three runs had been scored. Then came Meadows, who was touched for four runs and six hits. For the entire inning the Giants shoved across seven runs on six hits, a walk and three stolen bases, Frisch stealing two of the sacks.

With a 4 to 6 lead the crowd looked for an easy victory, but neither Rixey.

At the Finish

At dusk time how serene things are, Just as you see the first red star. How calm life grows where all its rush Has settled to a twilight hush Of whispering trees and winds that creep As if they, too, were half asleep. At dusk time in the greater game Perhaps it may be just the same, As one by one with trouble past We face the battle's end at last, Content to know that, lost or won, The fight is through, the game is done.

Wife Comes for Body

Early yesterday morning a white-faced, delicate little woman arrived from Cleveland and was met by members of the team. They had to keep the news back from her until she reached the hotel because of her condition. When they broke it to her she fainted, but rallied quickly, because there is another life dependent upon her bearing her loss bravely.

Chapman's body was taken to the Grand Central Terminal and placed aboard the Lake Shore Limited, which departed at 6:30 p. m. The train is due to arrive at Cleveland at 8:20 this morning. The casket was inclosed in a white pine box and on top was a bouquet of flowers bearing a white card on which was written, "For the one we both loved. John and Dorothy Henry."

Several relatives and friends accompanied the body and as it was carried through the terminal expressions of sympathy were heard on all sides. Several hundred fans followed the body to the platform gates, standing bare-headed as it was carried through.
